

2018-2019 Sharing of Student Leaders

Chief of English Ambassador

5A Icy Wong (WONG TSZ YI ICY)

I didn't apply to be an English Ambassador in junior forms.

I loathed taking up leadership positions and the ideas of participating in extra-curricular activities simply didn't turn me on. Thankfully, a change emerged when I became the Chief English Ambassador.

Taking up the role as a Chief English Ambassador entails full dedication of both time and effort. The need for frequent public appearance at assemblies and school events has meant numerous opportunities to brush up on my language – whether it is script writing or delivery of speeches. The challenge of having to overcome nervousness and stage fright has prepared me to be a better person who knows much better what it takes to improve myself. I became confident in myself but not complacent, and is ready to take pains to excel. The fear of making mistakes no longer puts me off as much as it used to. I simply enjoy the experience of being on stage. Perhaps it is through joining school activities that I have given myself a chance to see other facets of myself that would other remain hidden. For this, I count myself fortunate. It is also the experience of being an English Ambassador that I have added spice to an otherwise ordinary school life. Take it from me, whatever position you take up in school, you are bound to benefit in one way or another.
