Traveling through the Countryside side of Busan is soothing and wonderful

This was the first trip I've ever travelled by a plane. I was very excited. I had a 4-day trip in Korea. I had been waiting for this trip for a long time.

On the first day, my aunt and I landed at the Busan airport. We then headed to a traditional Korean restaurant to taste raw beef with rice for breakfast. It was mouth-watering. Then, we went to a massage lounge. The massage was very comfortable in spite of its high price. At the end of the day, we took a relaxing train ride and admired the fascinating sunset. The scenery was stunning.

On the second day, we went up to a mountain by riding in a wooden carriage. It was very thrilling and scary when we went through the forest on the rocky roads. My heart was beating so fast. However, the animals and wildlife never failed to amaze me.

On the third day, my aunt took me to a local park which was famous for its spectacular views. There were a variety of flowers and plants which attracted many bees and butterflies. The natural beauty was so breathtaking that I felt I was connected to mother nature. I enjoyed the gentle breeze and the warm sunshine while lying on the grassy field. Many picnickers gathered under the cherry blossoms and enjoyed their meals and light snacks. It was definitely an unforgettable experience.

On the whole, I enjoyed every bit of the trip. I wish I could visit Korea again next year.
