

Name: Woo Hoi Shan
Class: 1A
Topic: An unlucky day
Text Type: Diary Entry

7th November, 2018

Dear Diary,

Today was one of the most disastrous days of my life. Why was today so gloomy? I have no idea at all.

Yesterday I went to my relative's wedding. I went home late at midnight. I only slept for five hours; two hours less than usual on weekdays. So, I felt very tired. When I woke up, it was already 7:30 a.m. I must arrive at school before 8:00 a.m. I felt quite anxious. I packed my things in a rush and left fast. I ran as fast as I could. Unfortunately, when I arrived at school, the alarm had already rung. I needed to see the discipline teacher. Do you know how upset I felt? I wondered why I was so unlucky.

To make matters worse, since I didn't have enough time to pack my things, I didn't bring my homework. This was the first time I didn't hand in my homework, so I felt afraid and my face became as red as an apple. I checked my school bag thoroughly, but I couldn't find it. I told my class teacher and he asked me why I didn't hand in my homework. As a result, I needed to go to detention class, but I was really exhausted. I was disappointed in myself.

After the detention class, the weather turned bad. As the weather was good in the morning, I didn't bring my umbrella. All of a sudden, while I was returning home, it rained heavily. I ran home quickly. As a result, I got drenched. I felt very cold on the way because it was only 15°C at that time. After I got home, I got a cold and I needed to take medicine. I felt really upset. I felt extremely unfortunate today.

However, I've learnt a lesson. My bad luck makes me know that I should be more careful next time. I believe tomorrow will be a brand new day.

Time to bed now. Good night, Diary!